Canadian Forestry Corps

Introduction

Authorized in October 1916 under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander McDougall, the Canadian Forestry Corps was composed of companies, each of which came under one of the six district headquarters in Great Britain or one of the eight district headquarters in France. Companies in France were numbered below 100 and those in Britain were numbered 101 and up. The base depot was at Smith's Lawn, Windsor Great Park. The Canadian Forestry Corps in France came under the British Expeditionary Force Director of Works until March 1917 when a Directorate of Forestry was created.

Forestry Battalions raised in Canada (224th, 230th, 238th, 242nd) were absorbed by the Canadian Forestry Corps depot upon their arrival in Great Britain.

Districts in Great Britain were Nos. 51 (formerly No.1 at Inverness), 52 (formerly No.2, at Carlisle), 53 (formerly No.3, at Egham), 54 (formerly No.4, at Southampton), 55 (at Stirling) and 56 (at East Sheen).

Districts in France were organized in groups (Central, Bordeaux, Jura).

Most companies were engaged in forestry operations (including the making of sitprops, sleepers, sawlogs and axe handles) but some cleared, drained, levelled and graded sites for aerodromes, both in England and in France.

No. 2 Canadian Construction Company

Background Information

Organized in July 1916 under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel D. H. Sutherland.

Authorization published in General Order 69 of 15 July 1916.

Recruited amongst blacks across Canada.

Mobilized at Truro, Nova Scotia.

Left Halifax 25 March 1917 aboard SOUTHLAND.

Arrived in England 8 April 1917.

Strength: 19 officers, 598 other ranks.

Reduced to a company.

“Originally intended for Canadian Railway Troops... but, owing to the moral effect of mixing these men with whites, and Headquarters not approving of these being formed into Labour Companies, they were sent to the Forestry Corps” (RG9, vol. 4472, folder 3, file 2).

Arrived in France 17 May 1917. Attached to Jura Group, Canadian Forestry Corps, La Joux.

Disbanded by General Order 149 of 15 September 1920.
